Living the principles

I started out with UCP in the infant room at the Children’s Center. After about two years, I moved over to the service coordination arm of UCP for another ten years. Today, I support the staff and individuals of UCP’s self-directed service model, Agency with Choice. What I have found is that this is an organization that truly operates as a team across all service lines, and one that cares deeply about its employees. I think the most rewarding aspect of my job is simply knowing that in some small way I am helping others grow and experience their full potential.
