Living the principles

It never gets old, having the opportunity to share an individual's or a family's story--whether in word or imagery, or both. To see and hear, up close, and to be able to capture the astounding impact of our services--and especially our staff--on the lives of the people we support is a true honor. It's also a responsibility I take very seriously. On a personal note, I have been blessed to have been able to raise my daughter into the 'UCP family.' She developed an appreciation of all people's abilities, had her first volunteer opportunities, and also her first paid internship... all thanks to UCP.
