Living the principles

I knew I had a passion for helping others, so I felt this would be a part-time job that I could thoroughly enjoy. I have crossed paths with endless people who truly made a difference in the moment, or even in my life. My time spent with those with intellectual disabilities has changed my life for the better, forever.

I never wanted to be someone who dreaded heading to work, because our job is a huge part of our life.

I consider myself one of the lucky ones to love my job!
