Living the principles

When I came to UCP, I was familiar with the name but had no realization of the depth and breadth of its mission. I have stayed because I found it to be a place where I have been able to achieve success both professionally and personally.

I find satisfaction in playing a part in the program success. I help the staff, who in turn help the participants. So it underpins the concept that we're all connected.

in his own words

“

Over the years, I have been blessed to work with some amazing people at UCP; too numerous to mention them all. But our former CFO Tom Bunker had a huge impact on my development as a manager. Tom embodied the characteristics of a servant leader before I ever became aware of the concept.

words of wisdom:

“Focus on the human element. That will guide your creativity and actions.”

about Terry...

“Terry’s openness to exploring new tools and utilizing technology to facilitate efficiencies in our operations has been critical to UCP’s continued success. He is conservative with agency resources, and shops not only for the best solution, but the best value. He values our network security and seeks to help staff become safer consumers where technology is concerned. For all these reasons, Terry is an invaluable member of the UCP Management Team.”
